GOSPEL READING – Matthew 22:1-14

This parable can often be difficult to extrapolate a singular particular theme from it. In the time and era of Jesus' living ministry society was very compartmentalized and yet the king who represents the heavenly king is inviting those of distinctly different classes of society to the wedding banquet which represents the heavenly banquet that all are invited to if they respond to the invitation.

1. How do we respond to God's invitation to Jesus' wedding?
2. We are to be robed in righteousness (goodness). How do we prepare?
3. Would we have preferred a different ending to this parable? What "ending" would we have chosen, and why?
4. How do we react when we see those deemed as unfit being blessed by God?
